

Synergistic Research

The philosopher Immanuel Kant claimed the Latin phrase 'Sapere aude' as the motto of the Enlightenment, and the phrase more than applies to Synergistic Research. The phrase means 'Dare to know'.

Synergistic Research isn't scared of the unorthodox and the company makes almost everything in an audio system except the audio system itself; from the fuses in your plugs and sockets to the cables connecting to your loudspeakers, and even shaping the acoustic environment in which your system plays. Central to Synergistic's concept is that a system exists within an electromagnetic field and the more that field is directed and controlled, the better the sound. Each product is built on a series of listening tests, conducted by those who are prepared to listen first and then theorise. Honest questioning is welcomed in such tests; closed-minded skepticism isn't.

synergisticresearch.com

